The years have come and gone so fast
They hardly started, they were past,
But may our Nauset days live on Long after Time says they have gone.
Because we have our Yearbook now
To give us all a clear look how
We looked and thought and worked and played

At Nauset for those years that made Us what we'll be through all the rest —
And may that be the very best
As were the past four lively years.
Despite frustration, fears and tears
Our years at Nauset shone so bright
That we now have a life-long light

To guide us anywhere we roam —
But mainly may they guide us home,
And later when we meet again,
The girls turned women, boys turned men,
May this recall (as now it seems)
The spirit of our youthful dreams.
— John Gray

I, a small bird
in the safety of my nest
growing,
knowing, . . .
but my wings are still wet.
I'm pushed out to the edge of a branch,
alone.
I look back hearing, "Go on! You're on your own!"
But wait, I'm not ready, I'm afraid!
I look out from the end of the branch and wonder, . . .
will I fly or will I fall?

KIM ELLEN ROTTI. Tomorrows exist in order that new ideas might live. Therese — We could write a book; let's make it a never-ending novel. Therese, Denise, and Tina — To answer the question you ask so often — No, I will never regret the decision you all helped me to make in the eighth grade. Not with friends like you. Halloween '79 — Thank you D.M. On That Beach.

WILLIAM HANCOCK. My first clue came when I awoke one morning earlier than you expected and my room wasn't reassembled yet. I saw nothing, a cold nothing. Now, when I look at my creations through closed eyes I see your real faces. You gave it a good try, but it won't work. You must realize that by accepting me not by fighting me can I at last get to sleep. What a good sleep it will be.

TRACY JEANNE PETERS. Trammy, Trac, Honey, Little One. Activities: Rainbow 1,2; Chorus 1,2; Rob 3,4. Fave Sayings: "Are you kidding?" "Please, for me?" "Your crazy!" THE CLASS OF 1980

Our Class. Most of us who will receive a diploma this June have been hanging around this pretty nice school for the past four years. We've grown up and matured a lot. Now is the time for us to find and achieve our goals in life.

Getting up at 5:30 in the morning and catching the bus when it was pitch dark out and then finally waking up at the beginning of third period when your history teacher hands you an essay test, was only part of our school day. There are also the unforgettable memories of eating lunch in our bright orange cafeteria and asking your friends what's for lunch and once told always being disappointed unless pizza and peanut butter bars were on the menu.

Study halls and gym were always the best classes; the time seemed to fly. For 45 minutes the body took a vacation from the mind. Who can study when a friend is sitting across the table reading the latest issue of your favorite magazine or filling you in on what happened over the weekend?

Our high school years started with skateboards and ended with rollerskates; we watched Animal House at the movies and Saturday Night Live weekly on the T.V.; we visited England, Spain, Germany, Mexico, and Canada. In order to secure our future, we combed the country to find the right College or University to attend come fall. We laughed at Steve Martin, listened to the Eagles, the Grateful Dead, Billy Joel, and need I remind you of Farrah Fawcett-Majors.

When we all became Seniors we saw each other differently and realized that each of us was older and wiser. We held a quiet sense of respect for our fellow 1980 graduates to be. I commemorate our chefs at the bake sales and the pancake dinner, cheer those slick talking sellers of the oranges and grapefruits, thank the addicted candy bar buyers and congratulate those tasteful people who voted for our class to graduate in the school colors — 1980 in Black and Gold!!

Now that our Nikes are worn out and the last grades are in, and our yearbooks are signed from end to end, we'll all be contented to leave and say our good byes to Nauset hopefully with our diplomas in hand!
